

What place for the “F” word? Forgiveness in Restorative Justice

A lecture by

Professor John Braithwaite

*Distinguished Professor at Australia National University, author of ‘Crime, Shame and Reintegration’, known for his work in criminology,
regulatory frameworks
and peacebuilding.*

Faculty of Theology & Religion

GLOBAL DIRECTIONS

Oxford Network of Peace Studies

19 June 2014 - 5pm
T.S. Eliot Lecture Theatre, Merton College, Oxford.

FREE ENTRY but BOOKING IS REQUESTED
To book, email: matthew.mills@regents.ox.ac.uk

This event commences a two-day interdisciplinary symposium on the place of forgiveness in restorative justice, hosted by Regent's Park College (Oxford Centre for Christianity and Culture). Invited scholars and practitioners will explore theory, policy and practice. The symposium is organized in partnership with the Oxford Network of Peace Studies (OxPeace) and it is sponsored by Global Directions at Merton College, the Faculty of Theology and Religion and Westhill Educational Trust.